Name	The forum theatre
Methodology	A forum theatre works on four, iterative phases: • Define a common problem and the different actors involved. • Assign roles to participants and run a simulation of the problem • Discuss the results and the conflicting points; collectively draft a set of possible solutions to the problem based on the experience of the simulation • Run other iterations of the forum theatre, exchanging the roles among participants At the end of the forum theatre, participants gather to finalise the set of possible solutions to the problem
